Canadian Newsstand

Offering Canadian Newsstand through the ProQuest® interface provides subscribers with a single point of access to integrated Canadian, U.S. and international content and takes advantage of the extensive features and functions of the interface. Researchers can cross-database search Canadian Newsstand with the Canadian Business & Current Affairs (CBCA) database, a very powerful combination for the retrieval of Canadian information.

Subscribers are able to create an online newspaper resource from Canadian Newsstand by choosing from a selection of major national daily papers, customized regional packages, or simply by selecting single daily newspapers – whatever best suits their organization's needs. The core of the database is the Canadian Major Dailies collection which includes national and leading regional newspapers such as *The Globe and Mail, National Post, Montreal Gazette, Ottawa Citizen, Toronto Star, Regina Leader Post, Edmonton Journal, Vancouver Sun and the Victoria Times Colonist. (The Globe and Mail* is not available to corporate/government subscribers).

For those customers seeking a detailed regional focus, five regional packages (Atlantic, Ontario, Pacific, Prairies, Quebec), and two publisher packages (Torstar and Black Press) have been created. Each package includes the relevant major papers within the region, supplemented by smaller market dailies as well as weeklies and other papers, to provide a detailed geographic coverage.
